THE CHILDREN'S HOME

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY

Ladies.—It becomes my duty at this time of year as the retiring Secretary to give a statement of Children's Home which has been in operation for the last year.

At our last annual meeting there were in the Home fifty children—twenty-eight girls and twenty boys. Fourteen have been admitted during the year and eighteen have been returned to their friends or to the world. Of the twenty-two remaining in the Home twenty-three children in the Home twenty-three of whom regularly attend school.

Every child upon leaving the Home is furnished with some of the most necessary articles of clothing. Each one has been provided with a comfortable outfit when going out to service. Of the twelve thousand garments that have been made or repaired during the year, more than one-half of these have been made by the children themselves. Besides this good work more than seven hundred dollars have been earned by the children, not only as to saving money but what is of much more importance self-reliance.

All thought of economy consistent with the health and comfort of the children has been observed yet no necessary expenses are made. We could not do for the children as a good mother would do for her own little ones who have no one able or willing to watch over and guide them in the way which all children should be taught to follow. Many of these children can go to an institution of this character have no other home and have been such justly merited exposure to sickness that they seem entirely free from its influence. Both they and the Directress have reason to be grateful that no case of sickness has occurred during the year which could not be treated in the Home.

Having in former reports entered somewhat at length into the origin, progress and object of our Home I do not deem it necessary to go over the ground again but it may be well to make an effort to impress some of the more important points upon those who have already heard of them for the only by continued repetition that some persons can be induced to give close attention to any subject in which they are not personally interested. To be full as has hitherto been my intention the object of our Home is to take charge of food clothe and educate children deprived of the blessings of a home and the opportunities for usefulness and good name and women and as useful members of society and to get control of all that might be bodied in this direction and though your efforts have not always accomplished much as you and I could wish. Every well informed person will admit that you have done much good—that right now your Home has children who were neglected by our own and others who were neglected by our own and others who were neglected by our own and others

BLAINE'S UNPARDONABLE SIN

[From the Indianapolis News.]

Those Republican cliques and corners who have been demanding Mr. Blaine's dead life are the same lot who insisted Conkling's quarrel with Garfield was Hyatt's quarrel of Blaine's with Conkling. It was a mean revenge the former was taking on his old time enemy. These fellows made no account of the fact that Garfield himself said Robertson's appointment was his own personal action with all that implied, that Mr. Blaine in the Guiteau trial testified under oath that he had nothing whatever to do with the trouble in New York, those little trifles amount to nothing in the eyes of those who have picked Blaine for destruction. Their next move was to have it appear that he and the President were at swords' points over Mr. Blaine's offence is that he broke the third term deadlock, and headed off the crowd that jumped on the body and limb into the gutter.

[From the Money Making Journal.]

Some enemies insist that Mr. Blaine is still intriguing for the Presidency; whether he is or is not, it is certain that those who do not wish him to be a candidate are doing more to keep him before the people than those who would have no personal object on to see him nominated.

AN ADVERTISER OF IGNORANCE

The State of Maine the Executive Council confirms Governor Plaisted's Republican nominations, in opposition to the Governor's Republican selections. That Council of Republicans and Democrats acted on the same principle, only the Council is not pretended to be a reformed affair. The Advertiser says:

The Advertiser will read up a little on the quarrel between Gov. Plaisted and his Council it will not repeat the mistake of trying to throw the blame on the Council of Republicans, and so oppose the Governor's Republican selections." Gov. Plaisted has made Republican selections, but the Council is not a Council of Republicans but of Republicans who are unwilling to see the Governor in saddling Fusion offices upon Republican communities.—Kennebec Journal.

SULTS OF THE GUITEAU TRIAL TESTIMONY

Worthington, on despatch to the Irish Times:

The expert testimony in the trial of Guiteau, which has practically closed, Dr. Gray's cross examination only remaining, will alone make it a celebrated case in the annals of American jurisprudence. Three physicians have been examined upon the stand with regard to insanity. One Dr. Rodyce Barker, was questioned generally upon the subject, as bearing upon the possibility for crime, etc., without any direct reference to the prisoner. Seven physicians were asked and answered a hypothetical question for the decision which assumed the insanity of the prisoner and could hardly be answered, if at all, in any other way than by an admission that assuming the statements to be true, he was insane. These were Dr. Miles H. Nichols of the Bloomingdale Asylum, Dr. Charles F. Folsom, of the Harvard Medical College, Dr. Goldding, the Government Hospital for the Insane, Dr. James H. McBride of the navy, near Milwaukee, Wis., Dr. Walter Channing of Brookline, Mass., Dr. Theodore W. Hiller of Boston, and Dr. James Workman of Chicago. The defence made no attempt to elicit from these gentlemen the result of examinations made at the jail. It is understood that if they had been questioned upon this point, most, if not all of them would have pronounced Guiteau sane.

Fourteen experts in lunacy have testified that Guiteau is to their opinion sane. Dr. Hersey Peck had four experts originally summoned for the defence—Dr. Samuel Worcester, of Salem, Mass., Dr. Theodore Dent, of Auburn, Dr. Selden H. Talcott, of the New York Homeopathic Asylum at Middletown, and Dr. Henry P. Stearns of Retreat for the Insane at Hartford, Conn. The remaining ten were Dr. Lorenzo Bonnell, the specialist, Dr. Allan McLane Hamilton, of New York, Dr. Jamin Strong of the asylum near Cleveland, O., Dr. S. M. Andrew, of the Middletown (Conn.) Asylum, Dr. Isaac Ray, of the College Hill Asylum near Cincinnati, Dr. A. L. Macdonald of the New York City Asylum, Dr. Randolph Barnesdale, of the Richmond Lunatic Asylum, Dr. John H. Callender of the Danville Asylum, Dr. Walter Kempster of the Northern Asylum of Wisconsin, and Dr. John P. Gray, of Utica, N. Y. All gentlemen positively pronounced sane. To their number can be added Dr. Noble Young, the jail physician. Of the twenty-four physicians in all, named one only—Dr. E. C. Spitzka, of New York—gave it as his personal judgment that the prisoner is insane. There are a number of experts in attendance, such as Dr. Elwyn Lewis, who would have testified that Guiteau was sane, but were not called to go home on account of a sickness or [illegible] reasons.

The testimony given by the fourteen experts covers every ground upon which insanity has been or can be claimed. As enumerated it is an avalanche of proof that the assassin is sane. It has been shown that he has none of the physical signs of insanity in the shape of the skull, condition of the skin tone of the pupils, appearance of the eye, habits of sleep, digestion, etc. It has been shown that if he is insane he is an exception on all the intellectual manifestations seen in the experience of the most distinguished alienists. He has all the traits and symptoms which a man feigning his delusion ought not to have, and has none of the symptoms and traits which he ought to have. If he is insane he must be a new classification of insanity, and Guiteauism must be given a place in the books with mania, melancholia and dementia.

A number of persons however, go to the court-room and come away with the impression that Guiteau is insane, or at least disordered mind. There is good reason to believe that this is due in most cases to the appearance of his eyes, which seems him—especially when he is busy in court-room—something of a wild look. We do here state that this peculiar appearance results mainly from a weakness of the muscles moving the eyeball. This is as the left eye in particular, as raised by Dr. Loring's careful examination the eyes revealed no evidence of disease of brain.

The unanimity of the experts has been remarkable. There has been practically no difference of opinion except upon the point whether or not Guiteau has been saying a part. Many of the physicians have been present express gratification at the fact that in the trial, which will probably be a precedent upon the subject of insanity for many years, a sound and strict rule of responsibility for crime has been laid down, which is likely to put an end to many false and loose notions upon the subject.

Mrs. Garfield has been entertaining during the holidays Colonel and Mrs. Rockwell and divers members of her own family. The health of the late President's mother is singularly good, and though she falls into moods of sad reflection now and then she is usually sprightly and talkative.

NEW YEAR'S DAY AT WASHINGTON

President Arthur's Reception at the White House.

[Washington Cor. Boston Journal Jan 2.]

We have a bright, cool day, with a north wind. The skies are cloudless, the sidewalks are dry and clear, and there will be a great deal of official and private visiting. The President's reception at the White House was in every way a success, and the greatest stickler for etiquette have nothing to grumble at. When in New York last week the President happened to see an announcement that the State Departments were to be dressed with flags and bunting, as had been done when Mrs. Hayes presided over the White House, and he promptly telegraphed to have no such unnecessary display. This left the fine proportions and rich paper of the rooms uncovered, and showed the President's desire to have no inappropriate decorations, while he conformed to a social necessity. The light of day was not excluded, and, while there was a handsome display of flowers, there was not an over abundance of them. The Marine Band, in full scarlet uniform, was stationed in the corridor and performed a select programme, of which a potpourri from the 'Mascot' and "Billee Taylor" won the most applause.

President Arthur wore a full morning suit of black broadcloth, the upper buttons of the single breasted Albert coat buttoned, with a dark purple cravat. He shook hands with every one of the thousands who passed him occasionally saying a few words as he recognized an old acquaintance. The diplomats were presented to him by Secretary Frelinghuysen, and the officials by Mr. Sevellon A. Brown, of the Department of State.

THE LADIES PRESENT.

A brilliant array of ladies stood beyond the President, in the order in which I shall mention them: Mrs. Frelinghuysen in black satin and brocade, Mrs. Brewster in wine colored velvet, trimmed with lace, Mrs. Logan in a superb dress of blue velvet, trimmed with blue satin and lace, Mrs. James, in pink satin, trimmed with old point lace. Mrs. Mills in mulberry satin trimmed with point lace, Mrs. Don Cameron in white silk, trimmed with gold brocade, satin and point lace, Mrs. Blaine, in a plum colored silk dress, trimmed with velvet of the same shade and lace, Mrs. Bowman of Massachusetts, in a blue velvet and satin dress, trimmed with Spanish lace, and a cream plush bonnet, Mr. Deering of Iowa, in a prune colored brocade satin dress richly trimmed, Mrs. Robeson in a pink brocade dress, trimmed with silk and lace. With Mrs. Robeson was President Arthur's young daughter, very plainly dressed in a dark, serviceable woolen dress. Noticeable among the ladies who were presented were Miss West, the very much talked of daughter of the British Minister in a walking dress of invisible green, Madame Outrey, wife of the French Minister, in a pink brocade dress trimmed with black velvet and lace, Madame Yamaoona, in a dress of dark brocade, trimmed with velvet and Madame Baron, wife of the Spanish Minister, in pink brocade, trimmed with lace. All of the ladies wore their hats or bonnets.

THE PROMINENT GENTLEMEN

Prominent among the gentlemen were Senators David Davis, Morrill Hale and Logan, Commissioner Loring, lots of army and navy and marine officers, the Judiciary, ten survivors of the war of 1812, a dozen or more Mexican veterans and about a hundred comrades of the Grand Army of the Republic. Citizens of high and low degree of both sexes and all shades of color filled past in a steady tide for two hours, when the doors were closed.

From the White House the diplomats went to Secretary Frelinghuysen's, the army officers to Gen. Sherman's and the navy officers to Admiral Porter's, and from these houses they went individually to call on nearly all the ladies who received. Among them were Mrs. Commissioner Loring and Miss Loring, Mrs. Bowman, wife of Representative Bowman, Mr. Chief Justice Drake with Mrs. Little Drake, Mrs. Southard, Mrs. Judge McArthur, with her sister, Mrs. Walter Keith, of Boston, Mrs. S. C. Pomeroy, with Mrs. James M. Tyler, of Vermont, Mrs. T. L. Pulliech with Mrs. L. W. Barr of New Hampshire, and Mrs. Alonzo Weeks, with Miss Isabel Woodward, of Chelsea, Mrs. Naval Constructor Poole, assisted by Miss Prall of Boston, Mrs. Senator Rollins with her niece, Miss Helen Weare, Mrs. Senator Mahone. There was a refreshment table in every house where the ladies received, but a more general absence of intoxicating beverages than has ever been known, and consequently less intoxication. One lady kept her old family punch bowl filled with butter boiled beer, and gave one to each visitor.

WRECK OF THE COALING MACHINE

An Albany dispatch says: The complete wreck of the Conkling machine may be readily understood by the following figures. There were 8 Senators and 128 Assemblymen who stood by Conkling till the final vote on the day when Lapham was elected. One of these eight Senators (Astor) ran for Congress and was defeated. Six others sought a renomination, but did not succeed. The eighth was renominated, but a Democrat overcame his previous majority of 2800. On the other hand, four of the Senators who voted against Conkling have been returned. In the Assembly, sixteen of the Conkling men tried for renomination, but failed. Three who were renominated were defeated. One who was run for Senator was also defeated, while to make sure for of all that twenty-one—in fact of all the twenty-nine—was the youngest member of the Assembly, Ludsky of New York. Sixteen of the Assemblymen who voted for Lapham succeeded in being returned, and two or three failed.

The last Senate consisted of 25 Republicans and 7 Democrats. At the fall election the Republicans lost ten districts—mostly Conkling strongholds. This leaves the result Republicans 16, Democrats, 17. Five of this latter number belong to Tammany Hall. The last Assembly consisted of 81 Republicans and 47 Democrats. The Republicans lost twenty districts through bad nominations and bitter partisanship, and so the account stands: Republicans 61, Democrats 67—of which 13 are Tammany men.

The most striking feature of the Guiteau trial yesterday was the production of an astounding letter written by the assassin to Senator Don Cameron on the 19th of the present month. In this letter Guiteau asks for $500. "I am a Stalwart of the Stalwarts, and so are you," he says. As a further argument for a loan he urges the mutual admiration felt by himself and the Senator for General Arthur, and the fact that he made Arthur President. "If I get out of this I will return the money," the letter concludes, "if not, charge it to the Stalwarts." Mr. Scoville put the letter in evidence as a proof of insanity.—Tribune.

PERSONAL AND MISCELLANEOUS

Ex-Vice President Wheeler will spend most of the winter in the South, visiting Texas and Arizona.

Ex-Gov. Stanford will next spring plant a quarter of a million grape sprouts on his California farm.

The fear of fire in the theatres still inflicts heavy losses on London managers. Most of the houses are half empty.

Archbishop Purcell is now in better health than for three months past. He heard a mass at four o'clock on Christmas morning.

Miss West, the daughter of the British Minister at Washington, is a pretty and graceful young girl—a brunette with a piquant face and expressive eyes. She is a picturesque little figure as she goes walking in her brown dress, with a quaint poke bonnet tied under her chin.

Colorado does a little justifiable crowing at the beginning of the new year by means of an Associated Press despatch. Her taxable property has increased one-third during 1881, and is now $90,000,000. Her bullion output was $23,200,000. Denver, her pushing capital city, has spent $4,000,000 on new buildings. Railroad facilities are being rapidly increased. There will soon be a new line to Chicago and a direct road to New Orleans.

The Tribune says: Governor Cornell has one fact to communicate to the New York Legislature which is as creditable to him as it will be agreeable to the people of the State. There is a surplus of $2,600,000 in the State Treasury, much the largest sum ever left on hand after paying a year's expenses. The handsome sum of money is a proof of the economy and purity of Republican administration which the voters will not overlook when the next election comes around.

A NEW LEAF.

The time for turning over A NEW LEAF, occurring with annual regularity, is near at hand. The best intent that can be turned over by any one who has not already done so is to take out a policy of life insurance. It is the brightest blessing, the safest friend, the surest success.

Eighty two may come in mercifully, but experience has taught that the inevitable ration of death and disaster will continue to inflict their usual. None can tell where or when the scourge will descend. It is wise for all to be prepared for the smiting of the rod of bereavement. And the best preparation possible toward supplying the void occasioned by the untimely demise of father, brother or son is a life insurance policy for the benefit of the surviving mother, wife, child or sister. He who takes out a life insurance policy early in '82 will turn over a leaf that will form one of the best pages in his life's history.—Chronicle.

Coroner's Jury.

KENNEBUNK, Jan. 3. The Coroner's [illegible] organized and adjourned [illegible] January 9th.

The Body of [illegible] has been identified as Daniel Hodgkins of Haverhill, Mass. He was [illegible] years old, and leaves a family.

GUITEAU IN COURT.

EVIDENCE FOR THE PROSECUTION ALL IN.

Guiteau's Opening Speech.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3. In the Criminal Court [illegible] Guiteau [illegible] as follows: I had a very happy [illegible] yesterday [illegible] everybody [illegible] of visitors high-toned [illegible] This expressed their [illegible] opinion that I shall be acquitted.

[illegible] took the stand and Scoville [illegible] his examination. [illegible] upon the [illegible] of that the prisoner was [illegible] for the defence of [illegible] that the [illegible] would [illegible] the prisoner was sane on [illegible].

[illegible] question was propounded [illegible] killing of [illegible] asked [illegible].

[illegible] and [illegible] or the [illegible] or had [illegible] of the [illegible].

"You would have to find [illegible] before you could [illegible]" [illegible] familiar [illegible] by Dr. Wright, [illegible] "Yes, sir. I was [illegible] by the [illegible]" [illegible] that [illegible] patients who [illegible] the mouth and [illegible].

"Will [illegible] If you [illegible] to examine [illegible]" [illegible]. "I think so." "You [illegible] you don't agree [illegible] You ought to study the [illegible]. Then you would catch [illegible]."

[illegible] to believe [illegible] emotional insanity or [illegible] dipsomania, drunkenness [illegible] There [illegible] were simply convenient terms [illegible] to cover certain [illegible] said the witness, is never [illegible] more than cancer. [illegible] possibility to insanity is [illegible] transmitted from parents to [illegible] insanity does not necessarily [illegible] from some profound physical [illegible].

[illegible] progressed with tedious [illegible] to extract something [illegible] the witness again [illegible] with an [illegible] reply.

[illegible] desired to put in evidence certain [illegible] witness. From this it appeared [illegible] cases of homicide by insane [illegible] of them were by persons [illegible] under the insane delusion of Divine [illegible] for their acts.

[illegible] request of the District Attorney [illegible] described briefly these cases and [illegible]. Each case was one of marked [illegible] ended in suicide [illegible] recess.

After Recess

Dr. Gray was asked a few more questions by Scoville, when the District Attorney said his wealth concluded the [illegible] part of the Government [illegible] walked over to the dock and [illegible] with the prisoner a few minutes [illegible] returning to his seat [illegible] said [illegible] I am taken somewhat by [illegible] the action of the prosecution [illegible] several witnesses whose names have been given in as witnesses for [illegible] of the Government [illegible] to know something of the mental [illegible] of the prisoner about the time of the shooting of the President. I do not know now what [illegible] in the matter the defence [illegible] to take, but will inform the [illegible] to-morrow forenoon.

The Court adjourned soon after this.

An Affidavit from Scoville.

Scoville, counsel for Guiteau, will submit when the Court opens to-morrow, an affidavit setting forth that a number of witnesses for the prosecution whose names were on the list furnished to the defence have not been put on the stand, that he [illegible] to believe, or that at least a presumption exists that these witnesses, since they were originally selected and summoned by the prosecution, have changed their minds with regard to the case, and that the District Attorney has not put them upon the stand because he knows their testimony now would be favorable to the prisoner.

Some of his own witnesses, the affiant alleges, changed their views of the prisoner's mental condition after they were subpoenaed, and it is fair to presume a similar change took place in the opinions of the witnesses whom the prosecution called but afterwards decided not to examine. If so, then the testimony may be available for the purposes of the defence, and they should be put upon the stand.

A TERRIBLE DISASTER.

Festivities Changed to Mourning.

A FLOOR GIVES AWAY

PRECIPITATING 300 PEOPLE TO THE FLOOR BELOW.

HORRIBLE WORK OF THE FLAMES.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 3. Details have just been received of the calamity that occurred at Shanesville, Tuscarawas county, [illegible] Saturday night. The Knights of Pythias were giving a festival in Henry Gorley's Hall, which was in the second story of [illegible] frame building. By 8 o'clock Saturday evening from 200 to 300 persons had gathered. They were having a supper and selling fancy articles. The band had just ceased playing, when a crash was heard and the floor began to settle lengthwise in the centre. This threw the people, tables, stove, and all together in a string through the middle. There was [illegible] one [illegible] the store room under the lodge, the proprietor and [illegible] back in the frame [illegible]. When the floor came down from above the [illegible] counters [illegible] against the sides [illegible] filled the people in and between [illegible] space [illegible] feet wide on the lower floor, the upper floor [illegible] like a V. Those nearest the [illegible] scrambled and were dragged back into the frame store room. The [illegible].

Floors Barricaded the Front Doors

[illegible] soon chopped down and [illegible] in that direction [illegible] was a heavy, hot [illegible] shaped stove [illegible] the room above, and it fell with the [illegible] and wedged close against Miss [illegible] who [illegible] burned to a [illegible]. [illegible] in the store room [illegible] was also broken and the oil spilled [illegible] a number of persons. It at once burst into a blaze, and in a few moments Milton Yoder, the 5 year old son of Dr. Yoder, deceased, was burned to death in his mother's arms. She was also burned badly. The roof and walls all remained [illegible] and for that reason there is not a [illegible] to record. The crash [illegible] the heart-rending screams were heard all over town and the cry of fire being [illegible] everyone ran to the scene. The [illegible] did not catch and water was dashed in floods on the stove and the [illegible] people and fixtures.

Later—Terrible Scenes.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 3. The scenes which followed the breaking out of the flames beggars description. The cries and screams of the suffering victims mingled with groans and shrieks of the dying made the frantic efforts [illegible] the victims [illegible] raced around with their bodies burned and blackened presented a terrifying spectacle.

As the floor fell in the shape of a V there was no means of escape until assistance [illegible] arrived. During all [illegible] the fire was doing frightful work. Six persons perished in the flames including Mrs. Dr. Yoder and her little five years [illegible] who was burned to a crisp in his mother's arms.

[illegible] were crushed to death by the falling timbers and 60 others were seriously injured, some fatally. Many had their arms broken and ribs crushed, while others were terribly burned. Heroic efforts were made by the citizens to rescue the sufferers. The side of the building was broken in and water dashed on the struggling mass and many lives thus saved. The total number killed and wounded will probably reach 100.

The physicians of Shanesville, Rogers [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] to the sufferers. The victims are now doing well [illegible] The building was a rickety frame structure and had long been considered unsafe.

FROM WASHINGTON.

GENERAL NEWS.

The Whittaker Case.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3. It is said on high authority that Judge Advocate General Swaim, in reviewing the Court Martial proceedings in the case of Cadet Whittaker, [illegible] the point that the Court was illegally constituted because it was ordered by President Hayes without any request from the Department Commander, and that therefore all proceedings are void. It is argued that the power of the President to order an army Court Martial, is not inherent in him.

As Commander in Chief

but conferred solely by the statutory laws, which reads as follows: "Any [illegible] commanding the army of the United States, a separate army or a separate Department [illegible] competent to appoint General Court Martial, either in time of peace or in war, but when any such commander is accuser or prosecutor of any officer under his command, the Court shall be appointed by the President, and its proceedings and sentence shall be sent directly to the Secretary of War, by whom they shall be laid before the President for his approval or orders." This article confers no power upon the President to convene an army Court Martial except it be the contingency specified. The question will probably be referred to the Attorney General for his opinion. The view above indicated is apparently strengthened by the fact that Congress some years ago expressly authorized the President to convene Court Martials in any cases without instruction.

It is Contended

[From the Port and Press Jan 3.]

On the arrival of the train in this city a large crowd of anxious persons had gathered at the depot, fearful lest their friends were among those badly injured. Ambulances were in attendance to take those desiring or needing it to the hospital, where beds had already been provided.

The news of the disaster had been greatly exaggerated through the city and a feeling of relief made itself manifest when it was found to be less terrible than reported.

The experiences of those who went down in the ruins as told by them, were exciting and in some cases thrilling.

Mr H S French of Brockton, Mr G W Lane of Lee [illegible], Mr Mark Simmons of Boston and Mr W A Hill of Rockland, all took quarters at the Falmouth Hotel.

Statement of One of the Passengers

When the passengers entered the train in the morning the atmosphere was chilly and all the passengers gathered around the stove. After Mr French got warm and the car was warm, he removed his coat and left it on a seat in the forward part of the smoker while he and Mr Lane took their seats in the centre of the car, where they were at the time of the accident. If he had remained where he left his coat he would probably have been killed as Mr Kidder was. Mr French says the passengers behaved splendidly. One lady was so pinioned in one of the passenger cars that she could not be got out easily. She begged of the men who were trying to [illegible] her out not to tear her clothes, those seeming to be of more importance to her than her life. But the child had taken fire and was burning, and the four or five men out by main force, tearing off her clothes at the waist. Mr French also saw a man, wife and little boy who had escaped from the wreck. The lady and the mother kept asking the child if he—the child—was badly hurt. The brave little fellow, although badly cut, insisted he was not hurt. As they climbed the embankment the husband came rushing to meet them all safe, and the joy of all the parties at the meeting can be better imagined than described. Mr French, like the other passengers seen by our reporter,

Had to Pull Her

Was Very Severe on the Management of the road after the accident. He claims that it was an hour and a half before any assistance was rendered, that the wrecking train was not allowed to go from Kennebunk to the scene of the disaster for at least an hour after its arrival at that station with the surgeons on board; that after the passengers were taken to Kennebunk they could get no idea of what time they would be dispatched to their destination, neither was any food provided for them. Per contra we hear that the wires were down and that the management of the road could get only the most meagre particulars of the disaster.

Other Accounts

Mr Lane said his experience was substantially that of Mr French's. In attempting to hold on to his seat when the crash came his head was knocked violently against the side of the car and he exhibited a bunch like a prize fighter after [illegible]. He escaped from the car by crawling through the window.

Mr Hill of Rockland was sitting in the forward part of the smoker near Mr Kidder. One piece of the car struck him over the head inflicting an ugly gash. He also received several other severe blows and cuts. He was glad to go to bed as soon as he arrived at the hotel.

At other hotels were many others and they all had about the same story to tell. Many of them had hair breadth escapes. One man had the back of one seat and the front of another catch him like a vise around the throat and held him so tight he was with difficulty released from his terrible predicament.

The Train with the Doctors

As soon as the news reached Portland a wrecking train was made up by Mr [illegible], the efficient Superintendent of this section in about twenty minutes and all the doctors that could be reached by telephone were summoned and Drs. Weeks, Pendleton, Ring, Webster and several others responded, and upon their arrival the train started carrying also the Press reporter. A quick run was made to Saco where a stop was made and despite the exertions of the train hands a [illegible] mob boarded the train. After a short stop at Biddeford where four more doctors were taken on a quick run was made to Kennebunk and there the quickest stop [illegible]

The Doctors were soon at Work and preparations were made to take those who were able to be moved to the Maine General Hospital in Portland. Doors and chairs were again utilized and the sufferers were carried to the train and made as comfortable as such accommodations would allow. It was then about half past [illegible] and then began, or rather it was a continuation of a most outrageous and indecent delay. For instead of giving Mr Stevens the right to send trains from the track and run directly to Portland the train was kept waiting to take what few passengers might come on the 12.30 o'clock train from Boston, transferring them round the wreck but no passengers came and only some baggage. Not till then was a start made for Kennebunk station. Once there it was supposed that the train would start immediately for Portland and the hospital, but no the train must wait for orders from Boston and it did wait at the cold station another hour and when it finally started the whole mob of onlookers completely filled the trains not only the cars given up to them but the one set apart for the sufferers, defiling the air belonging to the sick and raising a stench that sufficed to nauseate the well persons on the train. Not until a quarter past seven o'clock did that train finally leave Kennebunk, seven long hours after the accident.

It is a sad disaster and to the road a costly one. The immediate damages are estimated at $30,000 to say nothing of the damages that must be paid to the sufferers. This is the first accident of any magnitude that has ever happened on this road and that may account in part for the otherwise unaccountable and inexcusable delay.

RESCUED FROM DEATH

William J. Coughlin of Somerville, Mass., says: In the fall of 1876 I was taken with BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS followed by a severe cough. I lost my appetite and flesh, and was confined to my bed. In 1877 I was admitted to the Hospital. The doctors said I had a hole in my lung as big as a half dollar. At one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of DR. WILLIAM HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS. I got a bottle, when to my surprise, I commenced to feel better, and to-day I feel better than for three years past.

I write this hoping every one afflicted with Diseased Lungs will take DR. WILLIAM HALL'S BALSAM, and be convinced that CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED. I can positively say it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness. d1t&w no3 mar12

A HEALTHY STATE

People are constantly changing their homes from East to West and from North to South or vice versa, in search of a healthy state. If they would learn to be contented and to use the celebrated Kidney Wort when sick they would be much better off. The whole system can be kept in a healthy state by this simple but effectual remedy. See large adv.

That great Dermatologist, Dr. C. W. Benson of Baltimore has prepared his favorite prescription for general use and now any person, however poor, can get the benefit of his best treatment for skin disease. It consists of both external and internal treatment. d&w1w dc31

WONDERFUL POWER.

When a medicine performs such cures as Kidney Wort is constantly doing, it may truly be said to have wonderful power. A carpenter in Montgomery, Vt., had suffered for eight years from the worst of kidney diseases, and had been wholly incapacitated for work. He says, "One box made a new man of me, and I sincerely believe it will restore to health all that are similarly afflicted." It is now sold in both liquid and dry form.—Danbury News.

"Glimpses of Scotland"

To say the least, it was certainly to be regretted that Norombega Hall should not have been rendered more comfortable last evening. Men sat and shivered with their heads drawn well down inside their turned-up coat collars, and the ladies moved uneasily about in their efforts to ward off the cold. It cannot be otherwise than that many who attended the lecture last night contracted severe colds.

Mr. Ragan, in presenting his "Glimpses of Scotland," took his auditors with him, in imagination, on board the steamer at New York. The trip across the ocean was described, and the pleasures to be derived therefrom by those who are so fortunate as to be exempt from paying tribute to Neptune. Very many points of especial interest to the tourist in Scotland were described and illustrated by the aid of a powerful stereopticon. The home and study of Sir Walter Scott, the humble home of Robert Burns, the "Tam O'Shanter Inn," and many other objects of more than passing interest to the student were shown upon the screen, accompanied by descriptions. Glimpses were also given of Edinburgh, of numerous old castles, crags, mountains and streams, of which Scotland boasts. The stereopticon views which illustrate Mr. Ragan's lectures are very fine, although last evening, in consequence of an unfortunate accident to the instrument, some of them were rather indistinct. This difficulty is to be remedied at once. The next lecture in the course will be delivered on Thursday evening, entitled London from the top of an omnibus.

A BRILLIANT WEDDING

Marriage of Miss Laura May Hayward and Mr William H Murphy

A very brilliant social event of the opening New Year was the wedding reception at the residence of one of our foremost citizens, Hon Charles Hayward, on Summer street Tuesday evening, on the occasion of the marriage of his youngest daughter, Miss Laura May Hayward, and Mr William H Murphy of Detroit, Michigan.

The wedding ceremony was performed shortly before 6 P. M., in the presence of the relatives and a few immediate friends, by Rev Henry L Griffin of the Hammond street Church, who very happily fastened the silken bonds of wedlock. The cards for the reception designated 7 to 7.30 P. M., and very soon after the ceremony was performed the guests began to arrive in large numbers, until in a very short time the spacious apartments were filled with a bright and fashionable throng representing our best society. Carpeting was laid from the street to the entrance and excellent arrangements were made for the convenient arrival and departure of carriages. The sleigh bells ringing out their merriest wedding peals in the crisp winter air and the clear bright weather was all that could be wished for a bridal day.

Within the rooms were radiant with light and perfumed with the fragrance of the bouquets and wreaths of cut flowers gracefully disposed about the apartments and [illegible] [illegible] the chandeliers and stair railing. Mr and Mrs Hayward and the newly married pair Mr and Mrs Murphy received their guests in the front parlor. Messrs Fred H Strickland, Walter R Morison, Harry Merrill and Charles H Bartlett, very pleasantly performing the duties of ushers. The bride attired in a rich white watered silk [illegible] cordially received the congratulations of her many friends. The bridegroom [illegible] [illegible] appeared. Misplaced Charity

To the Editor of the Whig & Courier

In your issues from time to time there are many excellent hints to remember the poor and you have so often spoken of the liberality of our citizens in this direction that nothing need be said by me. But what kind of poor should be cared for is a question of considerable importance as it seems to the writer.

One of our clergymen who had had an extensive experience in caring for the needy in our city, in preaching a Thanksgiving sermon from the text, "The poor ye have always with you and when ye will ye may do them good," classified them thus: The Lord's poor, the devil's poor, and poor devil; and some of those who listened, at first thought the terms rather harsh, but before the discourse closed thought them quite appropriate. But I do not propose to use the above terms in speaking of the poor of our city, but rather as the worthy poor, unworthy poor and the migratory poor. Of the first class there are many but it is not easy to find them as they prefer to struggle and suffer want rather than to make their necessities known and receive aid, however kindly proffered.

The second class are more numerous and are poor because of their lazy and intemperate habits and claim that the world owes them a living, and much of the charity that is bestowed on them is wasted, or worse than wasted.

The third, or migratory class, is the one I wish especially to bring to the notice of the public. This class are pauper tramps, they go from town to town, city to city, and stop long at where the people are the most benevolent, where they find the largest town-farm and best Alms-house where they can winter, (if it should come to that) and then start out in the spring with their increased progeny to attach themselves to some religious body by sending one or more children to Sunday School if they they will clothe them, and when they fail to support them they will go to another, and so on through the whole list, and they are not particular what denomination if they only provide well. Then they lay every benevolent society under contribution for fuel, food and clothing paying little or no rent, moving from one house to another. There are many of these families in our city now and have been, to the writer's knowledge, for the past forty years, living mostly on charity. Many of them have pauper settlement in other towns and are often kept here while under contract to be supported by some one in the town where they belong because it is cheaper on account of the help they receive from charities. Some have been supported here until they have gained a legal settlement and have been an expense to the city to the amount of between one and two thousand dollars, and the end is not yet. Ought not those charged with the distribution of funds raised to relieve the poor to consult together as to this class especially before helping them to any great extent? I am authorized by the Overseers of the Poor to say that they will cheerfully give any proper information to such as are authorized to receive it in regard to those families that are or should be assisted by them. I have in mind a family of nine that started from a town in the Aroostook and came to this city, obtained all they could and then started West and were gone nearly a year, having visited several States, travelling, as they said, eighteen hundred miles at the expense of the public.

My object in publishing the above statements is not to lessen public charities but to turn them into proper channels. I.

The Pacific Bank

The Boston Journal of Monday says the Directors of the Pacific Bank begin to see their way out of the woods. The accounts with Mr Weeks and the Central Bank have been so far adjusted that the Directors are now ready to go before the stockholders at the annual meeting on the 10th inst., with a statement which it is believed will, under the circumstances, be considered satisfactory. It became necessary to make a slight modification of the terms originally agreed upon with the Central. The changes, which are mainly in regard to time allowed, were on Saturday granted by the Directors of the Central, and the ensuing week will be devoted to strengthening the bank's condition as far as possible. Some weeks ago Mr. Benyon forwarded his resignation to the Board of Directors and it was laid upon the table without action. On Saturday afternoon the Directors declared the office of President vacant and proceeded to an election. It had been arranged that Mr. William J. Best, who is a heavy depositor in the bank, would be chosen President, with the understanding that he should devote three weeks out of four to the duties of the office. Last Saturday, however, Mr. Lewis C[illegible], who had previously declined, was induced to accept the office, and was chosen President. A Sunday paper contains the [illegible] statement that companies representing several millions of deposits have agreed to leave their money in the bank for six months or a year. The Directors of the bank would be happy indeed if they possessed several millions of deposits to retain possession of for six months or more. As previously stated, the exposé to be made at the stockholders' meeting of the history of the bank's mismanagement under President Benyon, will make a decidedly interesting story.

PILES! PILES! PILES!

A SURE CURE FOUND AT LAST! NO ONE NEED SUFFER!

A sure Cure for Blind, Bleeding, Itching and Ulcerated Piles has been discovered by Dr. William (an Indian remedy) called Dr. William's Indian Ointment. A single box has cured the worst chronic cases of 25 or 30 years standing. No one need suffer five minutes after applying this wonderful soothing medicine. Lotions, instruments and electuaries do more harm than good. William's Ointment absorbs the tumors, allays the intense itching, (particularly at night after getting warm in bed) acts as a poultice, gives instant and painless relief, and is prepared only for piles, itching of the private parts, and for nothing else.

Read what the Hon. J. M. Coffinberry of Cleveland, says about Dr. William's Indian Pile Ointment: I have used scores of Pile Cures, and it affords me pleasure to say that I have never found anything which gave such immediate and permanent relief as Dr. William's Indian Ointment.

For sale by all druggists or mailed on receipt of price, $1.00.

GREAT OIL BOOM.

E. Balch, Elgin, Ill., writes: "That after trying dozens of patent liniments, without relief, for a rheumatic and stiff knee, I feel I have 'struck oil at last,' for after using three bottles of Thomas' Eclectric Oil, I am prepared to say it is the best application I have ever used."

"ALL THE ILLS THAT FLESH IS HEIR TO," Arising from impurity of the blood, torpid liver, irregular bowels, disordered kidneys, etc., can be safely and speedily cured by Burdock Blood Bitters. Price $1.00, trial size 10 cents.

THE COMMODORE.

Jos. L. Foote, the Commodore, Elgin, Ill., says Thomas' Eclectric Oil cured him of sciatica with one application. [illegible] thoroughly applied. It also cured [illegible] of a severe cold and cough. He thinks it a very valuable remedy, and will never be without it.

NEARLY A MIRACLE.

E. Ascolth Hall, Binghamton, N. Y., writes: I suffered for several months with a dull pain through left lung and shoulders. I lost my spirits, appetite and color, and could with difficulty keep up all day. My mother procured some Burdock Blood Bitters. I took them as directed and have felt no pain since first week after using them, and am now quite well. Price $1.00, trial size 10 cents.

AN HONEST FARMER.

INFLUENCES OF THE FARMERS' CLUB.

Alluding to the influences resulting from the organization of the Penobscot Farmers' Club, the editor of the Home Farm says: "... of the Penobscot county towns, agricultural practices have heretofore not ranked quite as high as those in towns of the Kennebec valley and the western section of the State. Lumbering and manufacturing received the greater attention on the Penobscot, and to some extent they were not favored with so good soil as the Kennebec. For years and ... the interest was away from the farm.

It is a fact that farmers who have acquired intelligence and interest through their club are making progress of the leading questions which the ... come up for consideration at meetings ... Farmers' Club ..."
